

LMH

SUMMER

PROGRAMMES

2025

LADY MARGARET HALL
University of Oxford

AN UNMISSABLE OPPORTUNITY AN UNFORGETTABLE EXPERIENCE

Expand your horizons and boost your personal and academic growth with an LMH Summer Programme.

Our carefully developed range of courses all offer the chance to immerse yourself in your chosen subject, to dive deep into complex topics, and to explore the latest research in the field.

These courses are taught using the Oxford tutorial system. This personalized, small-group teaching method sharpens your critical thinking, enhances your communication skills, and provides a strong foundation for future academic and career success.

Beyond the classroom, our programme of social and cultural activities and events provides an authentic taste of the unique student experience at Oxford, and a perfect opportunity to make new friends from all across the globe.

Everything is on your doorstep, with the accommodation, dining, and teaching all on our beautiful self-contained College campus. And if you can't join us here in Oxford, many of our courses are available online, providing the same engaging and rewarding academic programme but with the convenience of taking part from where you are.

Join us this summer and discover all the best that Oxford has to offer!

Lady Margaret Hall is a college in the University of Oxford, founded in 1878 as the first to offer an Oxford education to women, which has since grown to a friendly and welcoming co-educational community of over 700 students and nearly 50 Fellows.

Throughout this history Lady Margaret Hall has remained steadfast in its commitment to diversity, inclusion, openness, and intellectual curiosity.

“The Programme, the tutors, the activities, the community...everything was perfect!”

IMMERSE YOURSELF IN A DYNAMIC LEARNING ENVIRONMENT

First-class teaching is at the heart of an LMH Summer Programme.

Through thought-provoking lectures and engaging seminar discussions, you'll expand your knowledge, explore fresh ideas, and gain valuable insights alongside a diverse group of international peers.

Each week culminates in an intellectually stimulating tutorial, Oxford's signature small-group class which offers a unique chance for personalised teaching from an expert academic. In groups of just two to four students, you'll present your work, engage in lively debates, and receive constructive feedback that deepens your understanding and sharpens your critical thinking skills.

But the learning doesn't stop there. Our Co-curricular Programme enhances your experience beyond the classroom, with skills sessions that help you refine essential academic and personal abilities—from presentations and public speaking to career-planning and preparation for graduate study. Every aspect of the LMH Summer Programme is designed to inspire, challenge, and equip you for future success.

Earn Academic Credit

LMH Summer Programmes are designed to be eligible for Academic Credit, and we can communicate with your home university to facilitate this as needed.

We recommend the award of 15 CATS / 7.5 ECTS / 4 US Credits for each 3-week course.

“The tutorials were the best hours of my academic life!”

“The tutorials were an amazing opportunity to gauge others' opinions about my essay and to listen to other students' ideas about the novels. I loved the tutorials.”

HAVE FUN, MAKE FRIENDS, AND EXPERIENCE THE BEST OF BRITISH

Alongside your studies we offer an exciting range of social activities, all led by the Residential Advisors (RAs), our team of Oxford University graduate students. The RAs are your go-to guides for making new friends, discovering the city, and immersing yourself in the vibrant Oxford student experience. They'll host fun social events throughout the week, from 'afternoon tea' to an evening at a local pub, and are always there if you need help or have any questions.

Meanwhile on our cultural programme you'll explore world-class museums like the Ashmolean and the Natural History Museum, take guided tours of iconic landmarks such as the Bodleian Library and the Radcliffe Camera, and visit some of Oxford's other historic colleges. Beyond the city, you'll embark on weekend excursions to nearby destinations like London and Bath, where you'll discover more of England's fascinating heritage and culture. It's an exciting blend of learning, exploration, and adventure that lets you experience the best of Oxford and beyond.

"I really enjoyed the social and cultural programme. I liked the huge variety of different activities offered."

MAKE YOURSELF AT HOME...

Lady Margaret Hall will be your home away from home. Set in 12 acres of peaceful grounds just 15 minutes walk from the city centre, the College offers a perfect environment for both study and relaxation, with a quiet library, spacious common rooms, and outdoor areas for football, tennis, and croquet.

In the city of Oxford, meanwhile, you will find medieval pubs bustling with students and cyclists weaving through cobbled streets. You'll explore the charming Covered Market, local cafés, and shops, while enjoying life in a diverse, international community.

This experience, of belonging both to the lively city of Oxford and to the private and unique oasis of the College, is part of what makes student life at Oxford so special.

“The environment is amazing - so full of history! Everyone was so friendly and helpful. The moment I introduced myself I felt at home.”

...OR STUDY WITH US ONLINE

If you can't join us in person in Oxford, an LMH Summer Programme Online presents an alternate opportunity to experience Oxford's world-renowned tutorial teaching system, and gain new skills to take you further in your future academic or professional career.

Meaningful learning requires easy interaction and shared participation. Lady Margaret Hall's remote programme platform ensures that this is never lost. You will use the app to register with the programme, access materials, watch live or recorded lectures, and ask questions of speakers in real time. For seminar and tutorial classes you and other students taking part online from around the world will join a tutor in Oxford in a virtual classroom.

Through careful online classroom management sessions are as interactive and engaging as if you were in the same room.

Throughout the programme our Remote Learning Coordinators will be on hand to ensure that online students are able to take part fully and effectively with all aspects of the academic programme.

“My tutor was great - he checked whether we understood the lecture materials, went into great depth on the seminar readings, and introduced very interesting concepts and discussions.

He tied the course together beautifully.”

COURSES & DATES

Programme Session 1 30th June - 18th July 2025	Programme Session 2 21st July - 8th August 2025	Programme Session 3 11th August - 29th August 2024
Artificial Intelligence and Machine Learning: Theory and Practice	Artificial Intelligence and Machine Learning: Theory and Practice	Artificial Intelligence and Machine Learning: Theory and Practice
Advanced Artificial Intelligence and Machine Learning: Deep Unsupervised Learning	Advanced Artificial Intelligence and Machine Learning: Computer Vision	Advanced Artificial Intelligence and Machine Learning: Natural Language Processing
Repression, Subversion, Expression: Gender and Sexuality in British Literature	British Literature: Oxford and the Rise of Fantasy	Jane Austen: Literature and Legacy
PPE: Leadership in Politics, Business, and Society	PPE: Climate Change, Politics, and Environmental Justice	PPE: Globalisation, Populism, and Identity
Economic History: The Great Divergence, Convergence, and Beyond	Peace and Conflict Studies	The Internet and Society
Psychology and Social Connection	Introduction to Cognitive Psychology	Computational Psychology and Artificial Intelligence

The LMH Summer Programmes take place over three Programme Sessions, each of which lasts three weeks. Most students join us for one Programme Session, selecting one course lasting three weeks, but many take two course options and study with us for six weeks, and some even select three courses over nine weeks. You can choose to take courses in the same subject area, or you can select courses from different disciplines to create your own personalised programme.

APPLY NOW

Visit our website to explore our range of courses, find our entry requirements, and access our application form.

GET IN TOUCH

lmh.ox.ac.uk/study-here/lmh-summer-programmes

vacation.programmes@lmh.ox.ac.uk

LADY MARGARET HALL
University of Oxford